BRANCH OF AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED HERE, SAT'DAY

Saturday last saw a big gathering of farmers and others interested in the formation of a branch of the A.I.A. at the Town Hall, when Mr. Gardner Lewis was appointed to the chair with Mr. Ray Greer acting as secretary.

On a motion by Messrs. Dixon and Mills it was resolved to form the branch and the election of officers for the same was immediately proceeded with, with the following result:

Pres., Mr. Dave Ratnay; vice-pres., Mr. Ronald Morrison; sec., Mr. E. Greer. Directors elected were: For Edgerton, Messrs. J. E. Challenger, W. F. Redmond and E. P. Taylor; for Gilt Edge, Mr. J. G. Lewis; for Wainwright, Messrs. R. B. Reid, F. Dixon, R. Jones and R. W. Campbell.

Mr. Townley-Smith, who is the Federal government organizer of the project, spoke on the sowing of clovers and grasses, and similar activities of other such organizations.

Mr. R. Scott, provincial district agriculturalist, spoke as to the assistance which the provincial and dominion governments will give to members of the A.I.A. with regard to pure-bred pigs and bulls, and also dealt with the problems of drought.

Both these speakers were listened to with rapt attention and many questions were asked and answered satisfactorily.

A lively discussion held the interest of those in attendance re a survey along the Ribstone Creek area for the purpose of water conservation in order that ranchers may have water for a longer period in the summer and fall.

A motion that a vote of thanks be extended to the Wainwright Star, Mr. H. U. Taylor, Mr. R. Greer, and all who had rendered assistance in the preliminary steps of organization; as well as to the two speakers of the afternoon.

The matter of the grant from the Federal government was explained, and the president and secretary were empowered to open a bank account in the name of the association.

The members of the body were informed that for the 1939 sowing would shortly be forwarded to them, and it was agreed that another meeting will be called as soon as all roads are passable, at which time the district agriculturalist will attend and explain any problems which may arise so that members may benefit by the full co-operation of the two governments in their endeavors.

Elevators Protest Against 60c Wheat

"Line elevators will lend support in seeking justice for the western producer at Ottawa," said W. E. Robertson, Calgary, president of the Western Grain Dealers' Association, in protesting against the Dominion government's 60c wheat guarantee legislation.

In a statement issued, he said: "The Western Grain Dealers' Association, operating some 1,000 line country elevators in Alberta, has given its unqualified and loyal support to the work of the Broken Committee, and in particular, has supported the continuation of a price of at least 80c for No. 1 Northern, basis Fort William, under a Wheat Board, as no less than ordinary justice to the producers of Western Canada during the abnormal conditions which prevail in the international wheat markets of the world. Any less support is, in plain language, a desertion of the great unprotected industry of wheat-growing which means so much to the national life of Canada and on which Western Canada is absolutely dependent."

"The present proposal of the Dominion Government for a 60c wheat price represents an average price for One Northern of approximately 40c on the farm. Notwithstanding any supplementary legislation providing for additional aid to farmers or agricultural districts on a relief basis, the announced policy means that the wheat industry has been completely abandoned to the disaster that must overtake it if it is left subject to international forces which it cannot control, and that Western Canada will be treated as a depressed area and Western farmers as relief recipients."

"We cannot believe that western members or the agricultural committee of the House of Commons will, if the facts are placed before them, accept any such surrender. The Western Grain Dealers' Association, therefore, will lend whatever support they can to any representations in favor of justice to the western producer that may be made to the agricultural committee of Parliament, to whom the whole matter should, in our opinion, be at once referred."

Viking Artists Win Y.P. Play Contest

The highlights of a delightful evening in Viking recently were three one-act plays presented in the form of a contest by the United Church Y.P. of Wainwright presbytery.

The hall was filled to capacity, several towns being represented in the audience.

The locals participating in the plays were: Viking, with "The Florist Shop", Wainwright with "Mrs. Stubbs' Book Agent", and Irma with "The Whole Truth".

Miss Alice Erickson, from the department of extension, acted as adjudicator and awarded first place to "The Florist Shop", presented by Viking Fireside Group.

After the adjudication the Viking local treated the visitors to a delightful lunch in the church hall.

This contest was an experimental venture and resulted in the Uniteds and executives coming away with new suggestions and better plans for future years.

Alberta's Drive For Tourist Trade

Competition for the tourist dollar is growing, particularly in view of the improved travel possibilities for this year. In various states consideration is being given to instituting or broadening extensive tourist promotion campaigns.

Alberta will be making a strong bid for tourist business, government authorities having announced some time ago that at least 35,000 tourist booklets will be distributed this year in Canada, United States and other countries.

Last year more than 80 states spent upwards of $3,000,000 in advertising their travel advantages. While in some instances funds were raised by private subscriptions, the trend is increasingly in the direction of government controlled and financed campaigns.

Motor clubs in various parts of the country are sponsoring measures for tourist promotion budgets, it is reported.

Scenery, good roads, climate and recreational possibilities are the features principally emphasized by states in their advertising programs.

Alberta, in order to obtain a good share of the increased travel westward and northward this year, must carry on an intensive publicity campaign, in the view of officials of the Alberta Motor Association. They point out that the tourist dollar is a cash dollar and will mean a lot to both rural and urban business this year.

A splendid turnout of the local couriers attended the service on Sunday last at the United church, when they listened to a very appropriate exhortation by the pastor, Rev. T. E. Armstrong, who is also chaplain of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bell arrived at the restaurant at the depot last week end to replace Mrs. Walling, who has now gone to the city.

Lots of fun was experienced by a number of young bloods of town who journeyed to the city on Saturday to witness the hockey game when the E.A.C.'s were again victorious.

No less than 14 young people joined the church at the morning service last Sunday at the United church.

Cambridge Wins Annual Boat Race

Cambridge, leading from start to finish defeated Oxford by four lengths on Saturday in the 91st inter-varsity boat race on the Thames.

It was the first victory for the light blues in three years and gave them 48 wins to Oxford's 42 since the rowing classic was first held more than a century ago.

Cambridge won comfortably, covering the 4 1/4-mile winding course in 19 minutes, three seconds, an even minute over the record. Oxford's time was 19 minutes 19 seconds.

LOCAL EVENTS

Secretary Taylor, of the Gilt Edge M.D., was in the city on business for a day or two at the week end.

Sunday last, April 2nd, was an auspicious date in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bibby, sr., it being the 40th anniversary of their wedding. And a good time was had by all!

Miss H. Adams, of the hospital staff, spent a day in Edmonton during the week.

Mr. J. Wilson, a former resident, was in town last week to say "hello".

Mr. A. Chartier was down from Edmonton during the week to pay a short visit to friends and relatives.

Miss Beattie Bowerman arrived home from the city last week end, having completed her college course.

"The Animal Lovers' Tour of Canada," which is an organization from the States, interested in the conservation of wild animal life, are planning to visit the National Buffalo Park. They are to arrive by special train on June 26th next, and Supt. A. G. Smith is completing the arrangements for their stay here.

Quite an interesting demonstration was given on Saturday at the Alma meat market when a representative of Canada Packers Ltd., was showing to all and sundry the right and proper way to cook the foods prepared by this company.

The local schools will close for the Easter vacation on Thursday and reopen on Monday, April 17th.

Mr. F. E. McLeod was a business visitor to the city last week for a couple of days.

In addition to the daffodil tea and home cooking served at the L.O.O.F. hall on Saturday, the ladies of the United church will have a special table of articles suitable for Mother's Day.

Everyone seems to be spreading the point these days to welcome spring, and among the latest is the Tory garage on Main Street, which is having its annual re-decoration.

After a holiday spent with friends and relatives in the East, Mr. W. Washburn arrived home last week at the wheel of his new Chevy car, which he describes as a real dandy.

Mrs. T. H. Halliwell, of Lloydminster, who has been staying here with her son-in-law, Mr. F. Johns, returned to her home last week end.

Mrs. W. Loudfoot, of Edmonton, was in town on business between trains on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brady were tripping to Edmonton last week end for a couple of days.

Mr. B. Beaulieu has arrived home from the east to spend a short holiday with his family here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Ward, jr., spent a couple of days with friends in Edmonton last week end.

A big display of tiller combine machines by Guy Tory last week end proved interesting to a large number of farmers, who were anxiously examining these new acquisitions to "the farming game".

Spring Hints For Motorists

1.—Be sure and change from light oil and grease to heavier grades for warm-weather driving.

2.—It's simple to prevent your car's cooling system from overheating this summer. Drain your anti-freeze and have your garageman pour a can of corrosion preventive into the radiator. Car manufacturers say radiators should be rust-proofed now.

3.—Check your brakes now after a long winter. Remember, even with good brakes, a car traveling 40 miles an hour cannot be stopped under 115 feet. Have your garageman "pull the wheels" to ensure proper check.

4.—Do you know that almost 60% of fatal accidents occur at night, although there is only one out of every four cars on the road. Have your headlights checked for correct focusing and the reflectors cleaned. Replace worn-out or dim headlight bulbs without delay.

"Little Sister" Now "Little Mother"

Halls Stoddard, wife of playwright Jack Kirkland, beams at her new daughter, Robin, as she enacts in real life her role in the "Big Sister" sketches, heard from C.J.C.A. Monday through Fridays at 12.00 noon. Oddly enough, Halls is cast as "little sister" Sue Evans Miller who recently had a baby in the story.

Jasper Ski Record Broken

Jasper Park, Alta.—One record of long standing was shattered here when 50 of the leading Rocky Mountain skiers gathered for a two-day ski tournament. Berger Peterson, of Blue River, B.C., ski club won the testing seven-mile cross country race in the remarkable time of 46 minutes, clipping ten minutes off the previous record.

Mr. and Mrs. C. McBride and Mr. and Mrs. H. Schlitt left together on Saturday last to spend a vacation at the coast for two or three weeks.

Special Deluxe Tractor on Parade

Quite a sensation was caused on Saturday last by the arrival of the new "M.M. Deluxe Tractor", which was demonstrated to a large number of farmers, and proved to be an innovation in these machines. It is made to travel from two to 40 miles per hour, and has air-conditioned cab and is fitted with all the latest of auto refinements, such as radio, hot water heater, electric fan, etc. In fact, it claims to be the very latest thing in farming comfort. Quite a number of our good old "ride farmers" claim they enjoyed the ride in the new machine, and we are told that even Harry Mabey is still wondering whether he should trade in "the greys".

Correct Version of Song "O Canada"

Teachers and pupils are asked to take notice of the instructions authorized by official Ottawa:

Canadian school children have been asked to sing the Weir version of "O Canada" during the visit of the King and Queen rather than any other version. The appeal was made by the inter-departmental committee in charge of details for the visit.

First verse and chorus of the Weir version follow:
O Canada! Our home and native land!
True patriot love in all thy sons command.

With glowing hearts we see thee rise,
The true north star through our skies,
We stand on guard, O Canada,
We stand on guard for thee.

O Canada, glorious and free,
O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

O Canada, we stand on guard for thee!

The tune was written by Calixa Lavallée and the lyrics, in French, by Judge Adolphe Rouleau of Quebec, in 1880. Robert Stanley Weir, Montreal, judge and poet, wrote the English version 20 years later, in 1908.

Famous Orchestra In Durbin Picture

Characterization goes hand in hand with score in this Universal musical, "One Hundred Men and a Girl" at the Elite Theatre this week end, from the spectacular opening presenting Stokowski and his orchestra on the concert dais to the closing which presents the men as the now happily employed unemployed.

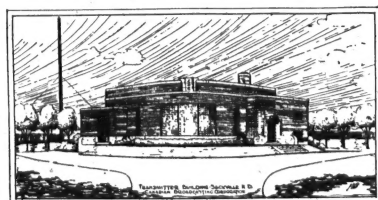

Certain unusual things are done in bringing into aural focus, as it were, the music of successfully close-up sections of the symphony orchestra instrumentation. A process called multiple channel recording was worked out by RCA engineers in collaboration with M. Stokowski and used to produce outstanding results.

It would have been a bold and resourceful showman who suggested contracting Leopold Stokowski and his symphony orchestra, not only to supply the music but to appear in the picture, but he and his brethren would have had for their pains, and have, the immense and unexploited exploitation advantages of just that arrangement.

Several, or all, would have advised casting of Mischka Auer in a comedy role not too unlike his assignment in the first Durbin picture, and the names of Alice Brady, Eugene Pallette and Adolphe Menjou would have popped up in quick association about them.

Deanna Durbin sings again and again, on dais and off, in this circumstance and that, and always she sings songs that children usually don't and as few adults can.

New High-Powered CBC Station

This drawing gives an architect's view of the tower and transmitter building of CBC's new 50,000-watt station at Saskview, N.B. It will be officially opened early in April, and will serve the Maritime provinces under the call-letters of CBA. CBC, at Wainwright, Sask., will be ready in June.

BRUCE BARTON Says

COPS

As we drove along beside the Hudson River we noticed a crowd at one of the piers. A discouraged gentleman had attempted to drown himself.

Dripping and dejected, he sat on an empty barrel, while the cop who had pulled him out of the water talked to him like a big brother. Presently the patrol wagon arrived to take them away, the cop still uttering words of friendly encouragement.

At a busy corner stood a woman with a baby in her arms and a youngster tugging at her skirt, anxiously viewing the torrent of traffic, afraid to plunge in.

The cop in the middle of the street sighted her, and raised his arm with a knightly gesture. The city stopped while the timid little mother crossed over.

It was late at night. On the steps of a residence, the windows of which were shuttered, a man was slouched in an obvious state of intoxication.

A cop touched him on the shoulder. They held a brief conversation. Presently the cop hailed a taxi, loaded the inebriated citizen in it, gave instructions to the taxi driver, and the taxi drove away.

These incidents, occurring within my own sight and close together, reminded me that I have long intended to write a little something about Cops.

I admire most of all their self-possession and the sound common-sense in which they go about their work. Adlai E. Stevenson, once vice-president of the United States, used to quote a friend's remark that "the Constitution of Illinois is an almost perfect document, but it should have one additional paragraph. It should provide for an appeal from the Supreme Court to any two justices of the peace."

The idea was that when all the high-priced lawyers and judges had finished their legal wrangling, then a couple of country claps should render a final decision on the basis of simple common sense.

ARE ALL THE CHANCES GONE?

You run across all sorts of surprises in the course of a business week. For instance, the vice-president of a big chain store organization was telling me a business story. And what do you suppose he based it on? The Bible.

He has charge of the company's personnel. It is a job to sort over a hundred young fellows in order to find the one who will start at small wages, work long hours, and fight his way up to the top.

The prizes are big, but the battle is hard, and only the toughest survive.

The part of the Bible to which the vice-president referred was the Feeding of the Five Thousand. Five thousand tired and hungry people.

The Lord said, "Feed them." His disciples, who were practical men, were aghast. "We can't do it," they protested. "It would take too much money."

Finally a boy was discovered in the crowd with five small loaves and two fishes. Said my friend: "All they had to work with was what the boy had."

"So with our company," he continued, "it's one of the leaders, yet there isn't a really brilliant man in it. We've all come up from the ranks. We can get money to do anything that we need; but money alone won't do it."

"But all we really have to work with is what our four thousand boys have. They are going to decide what this business will be in the years to come."

THROUGH THE EYES OF A COUNTRY WOMAN

By BRIDGET

This column is written about a week before it appears in print, so that it is difficult to discuss with any certainty world events, a subject paragon in all our minds at the present time. The map of Europe is changing rapidly, and it would be impossible to prophesy how far Mr. Hitler and his hordes will have penetrated eastward by the time this paper is published. It may be interesting to recall that a year ago, March 17th, the following appeared in this column: "Hitler has threatened like treatment (annexation) to Czechoslovakia," and reasons were given showing the importance of this territory to Hitler. In September, however, we heard Mr. Chamberlain broadcasting his belief in Hitler's declaration that "this (the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia) is my last territorial demand in Europe."

How anyone could believe this statement is beyond my humble imagination, but if Mr. Chamberlain did (and who am I to doubt his sincerity?) he must be peculiarly blind and deaf. Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf" was recommended to Mr. Chamberlain for reading by many leading writers and students of international affairs. If he had read Hitler's declaration of intent, clearly drawn up and contained therein, he would have had no doubt that Hitler would not be content with only Sudeten German territory. Perhaps after all, Hitler spoke the truth when he said that Sudetenland was the last demand he would make in Europe, because he knew that if he got away with that, the need for "demands" was past, he could take what he pleased, as and when he pleased, amusedly asking Britain afterwards for their "declaration of intent". Heaven help the rest of the world at that moment.

One clever, scheming man, drunk with the success of his "conquests". Think of the Skoda and Bruno armament factories in Czechoslovakia, (comparable to the big German Krupp works at Essen), which for 20 years have been making armaments which England and France could purchase at will if necessity arose. Now every shell, every gun, every implement of death made in these factories is a messenger of doom directed against the believers in democracy.

Anthony Eden has said, amidst this latest European development, that "we are heading for a universal tragedy, that will involve us all". He warned the world over a year ago what would happen if Chamberlain's "policy of appeasement" became Britain's foreign policy. Hasn't he been proved right? Rumor has it now that he is to be taken into the Cabinet again—what for? Will he be able to help anyone else, do now? Europe is like a jig-saw puzzle which lacks some pieces; or like Humpty-Dumpty, incapable of being put together again. Czechoslovakia is dead—the Czechs are once again in bondage. Slovakia is made rotten by the inhuman workings of Hitler's spies and agitators, keep its name (for the time being), if that is of any worth to it.

In September of last year I made the statement in this column that Hitler's ultimate objectives were the rich oilfields of Rumania, and the agricultural cornucopia of the Ukraine, with the idea of a possible outlet via the Black Sea. Now I'll go even further and state that his objective is much farther eastward.

Does the revolt in Syria mean a thing? The Syrian Government has revolted and demanded autonomy from the French government, already harassed by Italy's demand for Tunisia, and anxiety for the little state of Alsace-Lorraine. Near Syria there is plenty of trouble between the Arabs and Jews in Palestine, much of which is attributable to and fostered by German and Italian broadcasts. Do you happen to remember that there is a Berlin to Bagdad Railway? Pretty handy, for Bagdad, in Iraq (a British mandated territory), is south and east of Syria. Iraq is near Persia and Afghanistan, where it is very easy to stir up trouble. These all lie between Germany and India, one of Britain's richest and least satisfied Dominions. Get an atlas and follow this route—it is quite amusing and instructive game. India is near China, which Germany's eastern Fascist ally, Japan, is busy conquering. Does this sound terribly fantastic? Surely it is no more fantastic than what has been happening in Europe during this last year. If anyone had asked you eighteen months ago, did you think it possible for Hitler to enlarge Germany by thirty million persons without bloodshed, what would you have answered? Fantastic!

With the probability of the Mediterranean becoming a Fascist lake, England, in the event of war, might be unable to use the Suez Canal. India, now comparatively close to England, then becomes far distant. Two obvious routes remain—around Africa or across Canada and the Pacific. This latter would mean our "Isolation" look some-what less, and, it seems to me, is a possibility that Canadians who say, "Well, thank Heaven we live over on this side," might well consider.

Conservatives in England have

Canadian Garden Service 1939

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Variety

Variety may well be the spice of life but it is also the thing that makes gardening so interesting. Not even in landscape painting is there such a wealth of color at one's command. And gardening does not end with color.

There are varying hues impossible to describe, there are different textures, heights, seasons of bloom. In the tiniest plot one can have an enormous range. By adding a few stones and easing up on the hose, in one corner one may have a rock garden; by excavating a hole, lining with concrete or by merely sinking a crotch flush with the surface of the soil, one may have a lily pool.

One can do wonders with flowers alone, but still more amazing results will follow where we combine flowers skillfully with grass, winding walks, shrubbery and bits of stone work. In combining, however, we must take care not to reproduce a jungle. Flowers and shrubbery must not be so crowded that they become spindly and weak.

Little flowers must not be hidden by tall things like full size marigolds, cosmos or zinnias. Beds must be so arranged that we can keep down the weeds and remove fading foliage. Above all we must remember that unless we are very skillful, it is best to use a fair amount of lawn as a foreground for flower flowers. Lawns are almost vital in creating garden pictures.

Intensive

In the average private vegetable garden one has about the most intensive form of agriculture it is possible to develop. The smaller the amount of space available the more intensive it is or should be that production.

Finance in the large farm garden where an acre or two may be used then long rows are the rule with plenty of space for cultivation in between. In the city plot however, especially where there is water available cultivation is not so important but ground is. Therefore we plant in close rows, only a foot apart for little things like lettuce and beans, 18 inches for corn and tomatoes. We have two crops of certain things like radish in a single season, and we push growth quickly with fertilizer, carefully applied.

Shrubbery and Flowers

In the general plan the taller shrubs such as the common spirea, honeysuckle, forsythia, yucca, or lilac are placed farthest back. In front go the smaller shrubs, like the barberry, in different shades of foliage, the low spirea, the deciduous or evergreen things that never exceed three or four feet in height at maturity. In this class, too, will come many of the perennial flowers, iris, phlox, peonies, plants of medium height and which like all perennials when once planted and established will come up each year and flower with very little further attention.

Vines

Where the garden is hedged around with fences or walls, vines will come into the picture. These are best placed in both perennial and annual assortment and they come in the self-clinging type such as Boston Ivy and Virginia Creeper or those like the climbing roses, clematis, Dutchman's Pipe and Trumpet Vine, which are best given support. Even the most attractive stone wall is improved by the addition of a vine.

There is a mistaken notion that clinging vines will harm masonry. In England where houses and churches have been so covered for centuries such an opinion is ridiculed. On stone or brick or stucco walls they will do no damage and their foliage keeps out oppressive heat in summer because the wall is always in the shade.

Nursery Stock

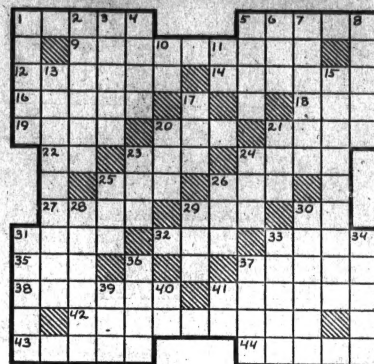

Shrubbery, fruit trees, roses and vines come under the general heading of nursery stock. Like seed it is important to secure such stock from a reputable source and one that is familiar and caters to Canadian conditions.

Good stock is pliable, green and shows plenty of live buds. Roots are moist and well wrapped to exclude the air. Such will grow readily when Italy demands Tunisia, which fed the Roman Legions of old from its rich, fertile land—very different from the barren land of Libya. Mussolini, by the way, has not reached the "annealing" class yet, but Albania, a somewhat negligible state, shivers now in its shoes, fearing that it may well be the first victim of another bloodless conquest. Hundreds of thousands of Jews will be looking for new homes—who is going to open their land to these poor unfortunates and thereby lay the foundation for a minority headache in the future?

The huge block of Fascist nations is growing hourly, while democracies sit around deploring the "unkindness" of dictators and handing out relief, huge gifts of money (paid for by the sweat of the unfortunate taxpayer), and advice to submit quietly. How handy that huge gift of money, magnanimously presented to Czechoslovakia by Mr. Chamberlain, after its "orderly dismemberment", will prove to Hitler! What supreme irony!

The Prevention of Sleeping Sickness
In Your HorsesEquine Encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness in horses is one of the most serious horse diseases that has ever appeared in Western Canada. The Province of Alberta was fortunate
in escaping this disease until the summer of 1938, although outbreaks
had occurred in Manitoba and Saskatchewan in previous years and had assumed serious proportions. During 1937 and 1938, Alberta has, therefore, the benefit of the experience
gained in combating the disease in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.Should the disease occur in Alberta
this year and follow the course that it has taken elsewhere, we may expect it to be of a more virulent form
and more widespread than it was
during the past season when it occurred in more or less restricted
areas. For these reasons, it is essential that farmers and horsemen acquire all the information they can regarding the preventive measures that may be taken.Vaccination has been found to be the most effective method of control.
Experiments conducted in Canada and the United States uphold this statement. The administration of vaccine
however, is a preventive, not a cure,
and vaccination to be effective must
be done BEFORE the disease is contracted.The first entirely satisfactory vaccine was developed for use on a large scale in 1938. It is known as "Chick"
vaccine and large quantities of it are
now available in the prairie provinces
under a co-operative arrangement
made between the governments of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta,
and the manufacturers—the Lederle
Laboratories in New York, and Cutters Laboratory in Berkeley, California.Therefore, there is at our disposal
a positive means of preventing an outbreak of this disease on a large scale. The price of the vaccine, including the cost of administration
will not exceed one dollar per horse.
Therefore, it ought to be possible for
the majority of the farmers in Alberta to vaccinate most of their horses. Vaccine properly administered assures protection for a period
of six months. Two doses must be given,
during the month of April, and will provide immunity until fall. It should be pointed out that two doses
of vaccine are necessary for complete protection.

Vaccine will be available at drug

stores, municipal offices and from registered veterinarians in Alberta.
Qualified veterinarians will administer the vaccine, but in districts where
the veterinarian is not available, arrangements have been made for some other authorized person to receive
special instructions on the proper procedure for vaccinating animals.Authorities agree that mares in
foal may be vaccinated with safety,
providing the vaccine is properly administered. Young foals are very susceptible to the disease, and the Department recommends that they be vaccinated when two or three days
old, providing they are normal at this time. Only about one-quarter of the dose for an adult horse should be administered to a young foal.Farmers and horse owners are warned to be on guard against unqualified persons advocating the use
of any other than "Chick" vaccine.
The Department of Agriculture has recommended the use of this product
only after careful study and investigation, and as far as can be ascertained at the present time, there is no
other form of vaccine which is satisfactory.In conclusion, the Department of Agriculture urges that all horse owners vaccinate their horses with
"Chick" vaccine during the month of April. If this is done, there will be little chance of an outbreak causing appreciable losses and owners may forget their worries insofar as the danger of this disease is concerned.
Further information for the prevention of equine encephalomyelitis
will be gladly furnished by the Department. Inquiries should be addressed to the Provincial Veterinarian
Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.VERY

HEALTH

BURNS

About 45 per cent. of fatal burns
occur during the first five years of life. Why is this? Chiefly because of the carelessness of parents, nurses
and servants. Three out of five death-dealing burns occur in women and girls. From the fourth to the thirty-fifth year, there is a relatively high death rate in females. Between theages of five and nine, twice as many girls as boys die from burns. After thirty-five there is a higher death rate
from this cause in men than in women. In old age the rate is again
higher in women. Burns in women
are more frequent because of the type of dress they wear. These fatalities
in women usually occur in the home.
They are commoner in winter than in
summer.According to the damage they do,
burns are classified into three first,
second and third degree. In burns of the first degree, the skin becomes inflamed and reddened. Except for the pain caused this degree of burn is not very serious. In second degree burns
the skin is reddened and blisters form.
Third degree burns include those of great severity including charring of the skin and deeper tissues.The danger of a burn usually depends upon the extent of surface skin involved. The simplest and most convenient household remedy for a burn of, say, the first two degrees is
the application of a strong infusion of
tea. This remedy has been used by the Chinese for 5,000 years. In all cases of any severity the aid of a doctor is necessary, but the use of tea as an emergency measure will relieve the pain and make the victim of a burn
comfortable.MODERN

ADHESIONS, SOMETIMES VERY REAL

Many of my lady patients have had, at one time or another, an operation for disease within the abdominal cavity. Removal of tumors, diseased ovaries or appendices—these operations involve exploration within the body, and, frequently leave after the most skilled surgeon—adhesions."Have I adhesions?" The question has been asked of me many times. Well, if your bodily functions are performed naturally, you need not worry. Constipation after an operation for appendicitis does not necessarily mean that the bowel is bound down by an adhesion. An adhesion is the growing together of structures in the abdomen that should not grow together. I have seen many cases of "adhesion" from the rupture—and later recovery—of an abscess of the tube or ovary that ran its course without operation.Bowel-walls and peritoneal surfaces grow together very quickly under certain contacts by sutures or forced pressure. Where a very marked stricture of the intestinal canal is produced, it may be necessary to re-open the abdomen and release the band closure.It is a very serious error to conclude that a mass or hard prominence on the abdomen indicates adhesions—whether real or imaginary. Rarely should a surgical abdomen be subject to hard manipulation, and even then the display of elbow grease marks the ignorance of the capable of doing serious injury.A few minor adhesions cause only slight pain; it is only those that narrow the caliber of the bowel and interfere with normal evacuation that need the attention of your careful physician.WHY POWER DETERMINES

ROYAL VISIT TO CANADA
IMPORTANT PRECEDENT
That a generous and heartfelt welcome, both official and unofficial, will be extended to Their Majesties during every moment of their stay upon
Canadian soil goes without saying.
But the vital aspect of the royal visit
is that it will mark a concrete recognition of Canada's national status under the Crown in a way that should appeal to the minds of Canadians with pride and inspiration, says the Prescott (Ont.) Journal.

Undoubtedly much pomp and ceremonial and public excitement will be seen, and both gaiety and solemnity
will prevail in proper course. There will be many joyous celebrations, and
school children will undoubtedly revel
in specially-declared holidays. From every nook and corner of this country Canadians will pour forth to look upon the flesh and blood of their monarch—the first time in the country's history when this has been possible.
The Dominion Government will be called upon to bid Their Majesties official welcome; but in the pleasure
and responsibility of the great national undertaking every provincial government, every municipal council,
hundreds of national and local institutions and organizations, and every man, woman and child in the country
will share.

Behind all the tumult and excitement of the forthcoming royal visit,
however, lie constitutional aspects of far-reaching importance. To Canadians, the most important thing of all
will be the fact that the man who is coming to visit is The King of Canada. George VI is not coming to these shores as the King of England,
or the King of Great Britain or as the King of the British Commonwealth of Nations or as the British Emperor.
He will come to our country, and will move about among us, as the King of Canada. This must be a fact of outstanding importance in the eyes of Canadian citizens.

When our present monarch ascended the throne, he did not inherit the sovereignty over Canada by virtue of any generalized Oath of Office referring to the British peoples wherever they may be. He did, on the contrary, specifically swear to serve as the King of Canada, and to be advised
with respect to Canadian matters by the Canadian ministers of the Crown.
King George VI was the first monarch to swear an Oath of Office in these terms, and the significance of this constitutional fact should be fully appreciated by Canadians.

A curious and interesting reversal
of the normal positions of the people
of Canada and the people of the United Kingdom, with reference to their
monarch, will emerge from the forthcoming royal visit to Canada. Heretofore, Canadians have been aware of the presence of the monarch across the Atlantic Ocean; but their nearest approach to Royalty has been in the person of the Governor-General, the King's resident deputy in this country. This summer, when Their Majesties are in Canada, the situation
will be reversed. The people of the United Kingdom will know of their King across the Atlantic Ocean in Canada, but for the time being, the titular head of their state will be a Regency, or some official corresponding to the Governor-General who will deputize for the King in the United Kingdom during his absence.

The meeting of the King's Privy Council in Canada will mark the first time in the country's history when the complete Canadian Privy Council—
consisting of 90 members of different political persuasions—will be in conference; and appropriately enough,
His Majesty the King will preside
over the meeting.

IDEALISM
Favorite expression of one of Canada's very greatest men, although a publisher, is that idealism is the least
used force in the world today, says
"The Printed Word".
This is more than merely saying we are materialistic. Wordsworth had a low opinion of his age when he wrote
"The world is too much with us". But to say we have idealism that we do not use is an expression of faith in the human race. It is sincerely to be hoped that faith is well founded.
If it is well founded Europe must
by now have accumulated vast stores
of idealism, for little enough of it has been used lately. Looking nearer home we also have been thrifty with
our idealism.
In every age men have cried out
that they were fallen upon evil times,
that people were bound up in getting
and beggling, with no considerations
of the broader and deeper aspects of an abundant life. It is then no new thing for us to believe that our age is materialistic.
That it is militaristic we can believe
without much danger of correction by ostent, but it is a great and courageous belief to believe that amid the usual turmoil of our time there is in yet an idealism strong enough to mend the world.

SHALL WE DISINFECT?
It is a generally accepted fact that
infection does not live in bedding,
clothes, old mattresses and other in-
animate objects, and that disinfection of such articles is a waste of time and a needless expense. The discovery that diphtheria carriers and mild overlooked cases of scarlet fever
and the carriage of infection by sprays from the mouth and nose were
the chief routes of transmission in these affections has discounted the value of terminal disinfection (that is, the disinfection used at the termination of the disease).
The germs which cause disease in
man fail to thrive outside the body
unless they exist under conditions of moisture, food and warmth conducive to their life. The only ones that remain active outside the body are those
like anthrax and tetanus, which possess spores, and perhaps that of typhoid fever. Germs do not live long
in old mattresses, bedding or clothing.
The orthodox disinfection of mattresses and bedding was abandoned in Brighton, England, in 1910. The boiling of sheets, washing of blankets,
dusting of bedrooms and scrubbing of
floors was substituted. Home contacts of measles have not been excluded from school at Brighton since 1922 and this without any noticeable
increase of infection.
In general the foregoing is the policy
followed by health officers in this country and in the United States. It is a wise policy. No increase of disease has been known to follow it. It serves to keep children in school without endangering anyone. The course
of education suffers less interference.
Old mattresses and bedding may be
dirty but they do not carry disease.

The Editor.
Dear Sir:—New Zealanders seem to be well satisfied with their Labor government as last fall they re-elected Prime Minister Savage and his associates with a vastly increased majority.
The Labor party put forward a program in 1935 which they promised to fulfill in three years and they fulfilled
it to a letter. This is something which has happened rarely, if ever, in any British country under capitalism.

Here are some of the real and practical things which were accomplished
by that Socialist government in three years: Wages were increased by
about $100,000,000; the 40-hour week
was instituted and the five-day week
unemployment was reduced by 85 per cent; farmers have been given a guaranteed price for their produce
through a national marketing scheme;
reduced farmers' mortgages to a figure which can be paid; thousands of new homes were built and the income
of the population was increased by about 36 per cent, during the three years of the Labor regime.
The New Zealand government socialized financial institutions, industries and public utilities for the benefit of the people of that country. New Zealand has taken the lead for public ownership in the British Commonwealth of Nations.
But Canada just sleeps on. The government still believes that the less interference on their part with private business the better. The tobacco companies, packing plants and finance institutions make millions,
while the unemployed beg for bread
streets and farmers can't make end
meet. These things have been exposed in recent years by commission
investigators.
Shall Canada be for the Canadian people or for the monopolists? This is a vital public question. Public ownership is the only practical answer to this question.

ions for thousands of her people. A Labor government was elected and
commenced immediately to remedy conditions. New Zealand now has guaranteed prices for all agricultural products; thousands of houses were built (3,500 in 1937); pensions for old age, veterans and the blind were increased. Business has shown a decided increase since 1936, more than 2,000 shops and over 600 factories having been opened in that time. Automobiles have increased 25% and telephone installations last year exceeded
all records. People are generally happier. Space will not permit further enlarging on the improvements
made in New Zealand, but with the resources that we have in Canada
there is no reason why that with intelligent control we could not equal
or surpass New Zealand in this respect. It is time for all Canadians
and more especially the younger people to give this some serious thought
and consideration.

Do you know just how many prac-

When baking a cake that you haven't time to frost, serve it with
spoonful of this fluffy HONEY MERINGUE: Beat 2 egg whites until they hold a peak. Then slowly
add 1 cup strained honey, while beating constantly. Continue beat-

peaks. You can serve this mer-

a modern air-conditioned ice re-

perfectly for several days and then use it on a moment's notice. The meringue is moist, clean-washed, air-

Gathering by hand is a long task,
and even if one has a special gathering attachment for the machine,
there is the bother of putting it on,
adjusting it and taking it off again.
Instead, just set your machine for extra long stitches and stitch the material straight across. Then draw up the underneath thread and you will have even gathers.

To sharpen knives easily and quickly, just rub a piece of the sandpaper along the edge of the blade.

When mixing salmon fritters, it is easier to mix together a small amount of pancake batter than to make the usual white sauce. Mix together 1/2 cup pancake batter and blend with 1 cup of drained and minced salmon, 2 teaspoons minced
onion and a dash of salt and pepper. Drop by teaspoonful in deep fat heated to 375° and fry until golden brown. Drain.

The most difficult part of scrubbing floors is lifting the soil from place to place. But this can be eliminated if you
build—or have
built—a little
box about 12
inches square
with sides 8
inches high and
mount it on 4
casters. It will be just large enough to hold the soil, scrub brush and soap; and the moist touch of the hand guides the "vagner" just
where you want it.

"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Mr. D. Davidson left for Kentucky, whether he took two buffalo from the park here.
Mr. M. B. McLeod has taken over the Buffalo dray line from Mr. W. Blinn and has made arrangements to move to town from the old Dawson farm.

Having spent the winter in California, Mr. C. Dupre arrived back in town last week.

Billy Blason was severely hurt last week, when a team ran away. He was thrown in such a way that the wheels of the wagon passed over his back.

Mr. J. Taylor has finished plastering the new Gerow Drug Store which was rebuilt following the recent fire.

Mr. Geo. Christopherson, returned to town after a pleasant holiday spent with his parents in Wisconsin.

After an absence of several years, during which time they have been living in Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Balmer returned to their farm at Gilt Edge last week.

TEN YEARS AGO

Blacksmith Tory has recovered sufficiently to be around again after dropping a heavy plank on his foot. Messrs. Roy Williams and Wm. Bibby have rented the old Wainwright office on Main Street and are occupying it jointly.

Mr. E. Western returned Thursday with his bride from Ontario. The happy couple have taken up residence on the groom's farm north east of town.

Mr. Fred Ganderton is building a verandah to his premises on Queen street, which he recently purchased.

Mr. Paul Graham was busy last week moving his family into the Graham house on Ninth avenue recently vacated by the Osley family.

This week saw the ground broken for the erection of the new Star office on Main street, which will be a fully fire-proof building. Mr. Dick McKay and his gang of men are in charge of the work.

EDGERTON
We still are in doubt as to the final outcome of the European upheaval, although it does seem to be a little more hopeful, or shall we say less menacing, than at this time last week which is a little bit of comfort.

Spring appears to be unable to make up its mind whether to stay with us or not, but we will go on hoping that blue birds, gophers and what not know more about it than we do, and that it really is Spring, in spite of appearances to the contrary.

Mrs. McKinnon returned from Wainwright hospital on Saturday looking somewhat pale and weary, but owing to the serious nature of her illness and operation, the recovery she has made to date is little short of wonderful. We hope she will soon feel better.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Kimball was the setting for a farewell party for Mary Scott, popular high grade student, who will be leaving this week with her mother and sisters to take up residence in Edmonton. She was the recipient of many little friendship tokens from her school chums.

Rev. A. Love had sufficiently recovered to conduct the regular Sunday service but we were talking to him on Saturday and he certainly looks anything but well to us. We really do wish him a swift and complete recovery.

We can now announce the date of the concert being sponsored by the ladies of the W.A. It is Wednesday, April 12th. From various tidbits that have leaked out, we understand that a full and varied program is in store. Prices are very modest, too.

Scotty Davidson is wandering around at the lumber yard once again and no doubt will soon be really on the job.

Just in case some of you missed this item in the early morning news broadcast on Saturday, we pass it on to you. "The world will know no true peace until General Franco's widow is telling Stalin, on his death-bed, that Hitler was assassinated whilst attending Mussolini's funeral." Rather good, don't you think?

Ed. Turnbull left on Friday, for Waterways, where he has employment for the summer.

Mr. Polvin was a tripper to Edmonton on Friday's train.

St. Patrick's W.A. are holding their annual card party and dance at the school on Monday evening, April 10th.

Morton Herbert left on Monday to spend the summer working at Waterways.

Mal Dixon accompanied a carload of horses to the East on Saturday last.

Claud McDonald returned to his home last week from the local hospital feeling much improved in health.

Miss M. Vandell was visiting at the week end at the home of Miss June Seabrook.

Mr. Austin Kinghorn accompanied by his sister Kathleen, left on Thursday for Edmonton, where they will spend a few days.

We are very glad to report Miss Ruth Ruste, who is a patient at the local hospital, is doing nicely after her recent operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nicols were visiting on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Croteau.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Elizabeth was amazed. "Why should Ahmed, of all people, come to your rescue?"

"I don't know," Stephen answered slowly. "I think he was following orders."

"But whose orders could he be following?"

"It is even possible, of course," Stephen said, "that he overheard or saw something, and saved me on his own initiative. After all, I've treated him very well."

"If only we dared believe he's on our side!"

"There are only two people we dare believe now," Stephen said grimly. "Mary and Michael."

"And Miss Dudley? What's happened to her?" Elizabeth queried. "What happened after you left me?"

"One question at a time," Stephen begged. "Dudley has been detained here—much to her fury. When we got downstairs after we left you, Ahmed told her that her hired car had gone. She tried to leave the house, anyway, but Ahmed stopped her. She then tried to see either Morris or Meres to protest. Neither

washbasin and dashed cold water on her face.

"Coffee would help," he said, "but we haven't any. Come along and walk up and down the room with me. He took her by the arm and walked her briskly back and forth, back and forth, in the narrow little room until Elizabeth finally stopped.

"I feel better now," she said. "Meres told me that the drug would only make me feel a trifle confused. I thought he was lying, but I guess he wasn't."

Stephen looked at her keenly. "Just a small dose, eh? Breaking you in gradually. The fiends!" he muttered.

Elizabeth sat down again and Stephen took a chair beside her.

"If you're sure you're feeling better," he said, "I'll tell you about a man that came to me while I was locked up this afternoon. I went in to see Mary about it just now, before I came in here, and she agreed to it—in fact, thinks it's a swell idea."

Elizabeth was listening attentively. "The idea," Stephen continued, "is to put on a all-down strike, look ourselves into a big storeroom in the cellar—you and Mary and I, and Michael, if I can get him out—and just stay there. There are enough food supplies and mineral water down there to last us indefinitely. We'll take Hilton along with us as a hostage."

Elizabeth unexpectedly burst out laughing. "You are funny, Stephen!"

"I don't mean to be," he bristled. "What's so funny about it?"

"Well, the idea just seems so fantastic somehow. Are you really serious about it?"

"Of course I'm serious!" he retorted. "I don't propose to sit around and wait to be blown to pieces."

Elizabeth sobered. "I'm sorry, Stephen. I didn't mean to poke fun at your idea. But it does seem rather like a last resort. Surely, there must be some way in which we could get out of the house."

"Not," Stephen shook his head. "The only exit is guarded, and the only windows not barred give onto the walled garden. There is no ladder, and our fallers aren't going to sit and watch us while we drag out tables and chairs with which to scale the wall."

"But can't we sit or saw through the bars on one of the other windows?"

"All the tools have been removed and hidden. No, Beth, the only sound idea is the cellar. They can't touch us there."

"Unless they blow us up," Elizabeth said with a shiver.

"They might blow me up," Stephen said, "but they're not going to blow you up, my sweet. You are obviously very necessary to them—alive!"

"There is some satisfaction in knowing they don't want me dead," Elizabeth said wryly. "But I'd rather they didn't want me at all. Before the end, I may wish I were dead!"

"Don't say that!" Stephen grasped her. "Don't even think it. We'll beat them yet!"

"Yes, Stephen," Elizabeth said, without much conviction.

"Now, listen," Stephen glanced at his watch. "It's ten thirty. Meres and Morris have probably retired. Somebody has been left on guard, of course, but we may be able to reach the cellar without being seen."

"Suppose we are seen—suppose they try to stop us?"

"Then we'll either have to make a dash for it, or else wait for another chance," Stephen rose. "Are you ready? I told Mary to meet us at the foot of the cellar steps at ten-thirty."

"What about Nurse Hilton?" Elizabeth asked.

"I'll come back for her later. Shall we go?"

Elizabeth nodded, and followed Stephen across the room to the very quietly opened the door a crack.

Then, suddenly, he pushed Elizabeth back.

"Wait!" he whispered.

He glided swiftly out into the hall. Elizabeth heard a muffled exclamation and a shuffle of feet. . . .

CHAPTER XXIX

Elizabeth waited uncertainly, wondering what she should do. Then a shadow fell across the path of light that shone into the room from the corridor, and Stephen re-appeared, pushing Nurse Hilton ahead of him.

"Turn on the light, Beth," he whispered, "and shut and lock the door."

Elizabeth obeyed quickly.

Stephen was holding the nurse's arms behind her with one hand, while his other hand was clasped over her mouth. As he removed the hand over her mouth, she drew a long, sobbing breath.

"See if she has anything in her pockets," he instructed Elizabeth.

"Of course I have things in my pockets!" Nurse Hilton said angrily. "What is the meaning of this outrage, Dr. Payne?"

Stephen laughed shortly. "Go ahead, Beth—search her. I've got a grip on her."

Under furious glances from the nurse, Elizabeth advanced somewhat nervously. From one pocket, she drew out a handkerchief, a pair of surgical scissors, and a box containing a hypodermic syringe. From the other, she removed a small revolver.

"Humph!" said Stephen. "See if it's loaded, Beth."

"It is. All chambers," Elizabeth reported.

"Good!"

Stephen let the nurse go and, taking the revolver from Elizabeth, slipped it into his pocket.

"Strange little toy for a nurse to carry around with her," he murmured.

"With all the goings on in this house, can you blame me?" Nurse Hilton muttered sullenly. "And after what has just happened—"

"Sit down!" Stephen interrupted. He glanced at the surgical scissors and syringe, which Elizabeth had put on the table.

"What are you doing with these?"

"If it has come to the point when a nurse can't even—"

"This is not a hospital, full of patients," Stephen cut in. "I want to know what you were doing with them tonight?"

"Mr. Brown cut himself badly with his knife at dinner. We had to give him something to quiet him, so he could sleep."

"So!" Stephen's eyes were like ice. "So Mr. Brown is so young he can't handle a knife and fork. Stop this nonsense, Hilton, and tell me what you did to him!"

To Elizabeth's astonishment, the nurse suddenly burst into tears.

"I don't know what happened," she sobbed. "Dr. Morris sent for me to help with the dressing. That is all I know!"

She continued to cry, gasping hysterically. Stephen waited calmly until she had pulled herself together.

"My compliments," he said sarcastically. "That was the most realistic performance of faked hysteria I've seen in a long time."

The nurse blew her nose, and looked at him miserably.

"I don't blame you, Dr. Payne, for doubting me but you must believe me. I haven't been double-crossing you."

"It will take an awful lot of explaining to convince me of that!" Stephen laughed shortly.

"Listen!" the nurse said, in a tense, desperate voice. "Don't you see that the only way I can help you is to pretend to be on their side? You must believe me! Your life isn't worth anything unless you'll let me help you and that's the only way I can—by trying to find out their plans. As for Miss Allen—the nurse's voice shook—"what they have in store for her is even worse."

Elizabeth was staring at her intently. Was it possible she was telling the truth? She sounded so desperately sincere, and yet . . .

Stephen broke the silence. "That all sounds very nice," he said grimly, "but I notice you didn't put up much of an effort to save my life today. From what Miss Allen has told me . . ."

"I did save your life!" Nurse Hilton interrupted. "By telling Ahmed to shut you up in the padded room!"

Elizabeth was surprised, and she could see that Stephen was, too.

"So it was you?" he said finally. He eyed the nurse sharply. "But I find it hard to believe. Ahmed is devoted to Dr. Morris. He wouldn't take an order from you."

"Have you seen the way Dr. Morris looks at Ahmed recently?" the nurse asked.

There suddenly flashed through Elizabeth's mind the picture of the doctor staring after Ahmed, that day she had arrived. She could see again the expression on his face—a strange combination of hate and compassion.

"I can see that Miss Allen has noticed it," Nurse Hilton remarked quietly.

"What do you mean?" Stephen asked.

"Dr. Morris hates Ahmed," the nurse answered promptly, "because he is afraid of him. Ahmed knows too much and will have to be silenced, just as Mrs. Graham was, and yet, Dr. Morris has a certain feeling of affection for the man, paradoxical as that may seem. You can see both hate and sorrow in the way he looks at Ahmed."

"Ahmed's no fool. He has caught more than one such look from the doctor and, after Mrs. Graham died, he told me he was afraid."

"Humph!" Stephen grunted. "All right, Hilton, we'll take your word for the moment. Right now, the three of us are going to take a little stroll, and it's up to you to help us get where we're going."

"Very well," the nurse sighed. "But I can't let you out of the house, and I'm afraid to take you to Mr. Brown, for fear of being suspected of helping you."

"You don't have to do either. Come on—let's get going. Walk ahead, Hilton, and don't forget I've got your revolver."

With the nurse leading, the three of them left the room, went down the corridor, and started down the stairs. Elizabeth drew her breath in sharply. In the hall below, Meres was pacing slowly up and down.

"Make any excuse, Hilton, but you have got to get us past him," Stephen said, in a low voice.

The nurse nodded, but she looked unhappy.

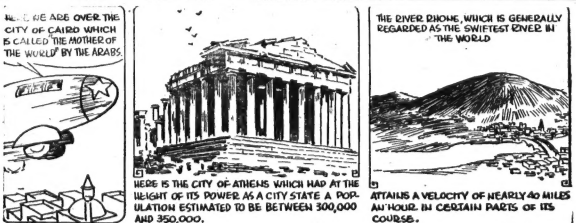

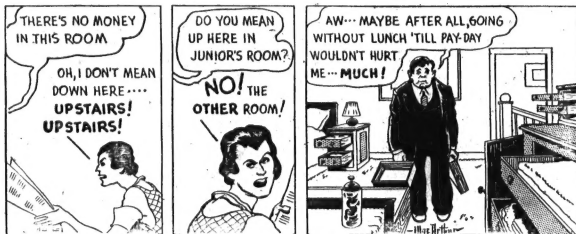

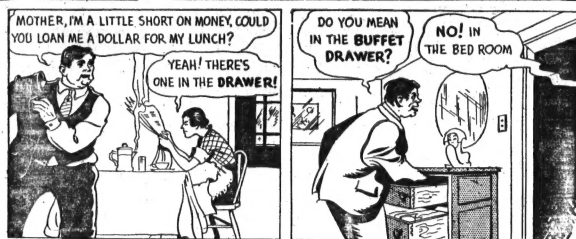

As they neared the bottom of the stairs, Meres stopped walking and turned toward them, staring up at them like an ugly monster, his eyes cold and hard.

ITS AGIN THE LAW
TO USE A GUN

The Best Way to hunt Customers is to use the

Wainwright Star

It wouldn't do to take a gun to go out for customers. Hunting customers requires a clever technique, but some business men are blind in their search for more business.

They are blind to the fact that advertising is good business. The investment in space in the columns of The Wainwright Star is an investment which will return quickly and many times over in an increased sales volume.

Form the habit of keeping the news of your business before the public through The Wainwright Star. Our readers are quick to take advantage of shopping opportunities. Your business will increase and more trading will be done at home by the shoppers.

It is more convenient to trade at home . . . Readers of the home-town paper patronize our advertisers. You don't need a license to advertise. Just phone us. We'll be glad to help you solve your advertising problems.

It has to be good to be ADVERTISED

ALL THE KING'S HORSES . . . AND ALL THE KING'S MEN CAN'T MAKE A SUCCESS OUT OF A BAD PRODUCT. NO AMOUNT OF ADVERTISING WILL CREATE A MARKET FOR IT. THE MORE IT'S ADVERTISED, THE MORE IT'S DEFECTS BECOME KNOWN.

WHEN YOU SEE SOMETHING WIDELY AND CONSISTENTLY ADVERTISED, YOU CAN BE PRETTY SURE IT'S WELL WORTH HAVING. IF IT WEREN'T

IF IT DIDN'T REPRESENT AN HONEST AND WORTHY VALUE THE MAKER COULDN'T AFFORD TO ADVERTISE IT.

LOOK OVER THE ADVERTISING IN THE STAR. . . SOME OF THESE NAMES YOU KNOW. OTHERS PERHAPS ARE NEW-COMERS, POTENTIAL FRIENDS BRINGING A MESSAGE OR SOMETHING NEW. BUT ALL ARE ENTITLED TO YOUR TRUST. . . ALL ARE HERE BECAUSE THEY HAVE SOMETHING REAL TO CONTRIBUTE TO YOUR ADVANTAGE. . . YOUR SERVICE. . . YOUR SUCCESS.

WHEN YOU WRITE TO OUR ADVERTISERS BE SURE AND LET THEM KNOW THAT YOU SAW THEIR ADVERTISEMENT IN "THE STAR". THIS HELPS EVERYONE—YOURSELF INCLUDED.

Current Cup Cakes
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
1 cup currants
3/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and currants and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased cup-cake pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 18 to 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 2 dozen cup cakes.

Chocolate Fudge
1 package chocolate arrowroot pudding
1 1/2 cups sugar
2-3 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Put chocolate arrowroot pudding, sugar and milk into a sauce pan; cook until mixture reaches 234° F., or forms a medium ball in cold water. Stir occasionally while cooking to prevent sticking. Remove from fire; cool until luke warm. Add butter and vanilla. Beat until creamy and thick; pour into buttered pan; cut into squares. One-half cup chopped nuts may be added before beating. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

Allow Me
to Present

By BETTY BARCLAY

Many desserts need no introduction. They are old standbys in the home. In fact, some have about worn out their welcome. The only reason they appear at so many meals is because the woman of the home has gotten into a cooking rut and has ceased searching for something new.

But the following recipe is, I trust, a new one to you—and I am introducing it properly. "Allow me to present Miss Peppermint Rennet-Custard, an eggless dessert that needs no baking or boiling and no apology when placed before your most particular friend. It's good, and good for you."

Peppermint Rennet-Custard
3/4 pound peppermint stick candy
1 pint milk
1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water

Crush candy into fine crumbs and let stand in milk in refrigerator for 1 hour. Dissolve rennet tablet in cold water. Turn milk and candy mixture into top of double boiler and warm until lukewarm, stirring until candy is all dissolved. Remove from stove and stir in dissolved tablet. Pour immediately into sherbet glasses or custard cups. Let stand 10 minutes at room temperature, then chill in refrigerator. Just before serving, garnish with a pool of thick chocolate sauce. Yield: 8 servings.

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
Seasonings

Prepare a white sauce with butter, flour, milk and cheese, and season. Place half the cod—or any other kind of white-fleshed fish may be used instead—in a buttered oven dish, cover with half of the cheese sauce, then a second layer of fish, and the rest of the sauce. Cover with the bread crumbs, brown in oven.

That Canadian favorite, canned chicken haddock, can also be used in this recipe. Or if you use the dried or shredded cod, here's the way to freshen it. The shredded cod can be freshened in a few minutes, or use the following method of freshening dried cod:

How To Freshen Dried Salt Fish
First method: Wash the fish to take off the salt left on the surface, then soak in cold water twelve to eighteen hours, with the skin on top.

Second method: Shred the fish, wash it several times to take off salt left on the surface, then put it into cold water and heat to the boiling point; pour off the water, and repeat the operation a second and even a third time, if necessary. Do not cut dried fish with a steel knife.

The World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange.

Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

The French have a proverb. "It's the first step that counts", sometimes rendered as "It is the first step that often leads to a march of a thousand miles along the wrong road."

The world today is in a dreadful mess. The governments of great countries are breaking their solemn and pledged words of honor. Ruthlessly they invade smaller countries, while at the same time other great powers, which had guaranteed the safety of the smaller countries, stand idly by.

It is easy to see, however, that the ever-expanding process of the breaking of solemn treaties, has progressed rapidly from one single first false step, which was the harshness of the Treaty of Versailles and the abandonment of President Wilson's statesmanlike "Fourteen Points".

Political diplomacy has completely broken down. I suggest, therefore, that we might permit the merchants of the various countries to try their hands at an economic conference, to devise ways and means simply of exchanging the surplus foodstuffs and raw materials, unwanted in some countries, for the goods that other countries, which need the foodstuffs, are able to give. Then the economic wrongs some nations feel they are laboring under may be redressed.

Such economic—not political—appeasement, I believe, is the only possible way to avoid an impending and ruthless war.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Trade agreement between Germany and the Argentine confirmed—Floods inundate some U.S. farm lands—China's 1938 wheat crop estimated at 164 million bushels less than the five year average—Expect heavy abandonment in the winter grain areas in Russia—Old corn reserves in the Argentine small.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Favorable weather in Australia for ploughing and seeding—Miscellaneous food crops in China are good—Ample rainfall moisture in a large part of the U.S. southwest and Pacific northwest for the new crop—European demands slow; some evidence that European countries have completed special stores of stocks for possible war.

WHEN COLD IS KING

MEALS need to be crisp, cool and succulent to tempt warm weather appetites; and ice—shaved, cracked, or in taste-free, crystal-clear cubes—comes into its own as first aid to summer menus.

APPETIZERS
For a veritable flower-garden dish, surround fruit cup or tomato juice cocktail with shaved ice, tinted pale green. To tint the ice, pour a drop or two of vegetable coloring over it and mix lightly to blend the color.

For an attractive and refreshing cocktail accompaniment, serve caviar curls, raw carrot sticks and huge ripe olives in a bowl of cracked ice.

FROSTY DRINKS
Cold drinks are as much a part of summer life as picnics and swimming and if you keep on hand

your emergency shelf, a variety of canned fruit juices, you can serve them at a moment's notice. Merely fill a tall glass with shaved ice and pour over it apricot, grapefruit, or pineapple juice or a combination of all three and garnish with a sprig of mint. It's easy to secure as much cracked ice as you want, if you have a modern, air-conditioned ice refrigerator. Just cover one corner of the cake of ice with cheesecloth (to keep the chips from scattering while you work) and with the handy ice pick, chip off the desired amount. Ice cubes—tasteless and crystal-clear—are only a minute's work with the handy little cuber!

ON ACCOUNT OF THE WHOLE DAY HOLIDAY ON FRIDAY NEXT THE USUAL WEDNESDAY HALF-HOLIDAY WILL NOT PREVAIL THIS WEEK.

The Alberta legislature prorogued on Monday last when Lieut.-Governor Bowen gave assent to the last of a large batch of Bills, Acts and Amendments which have been passed by that body during the session.

If you contemplate making any additions or doing any repair work to your house or to other farm buildings, why not finance the work through the Home Improvement Loan plan? You can borrow at long terms, without interest, at small cost. The plan also covers the sinking, repair or improvement of wells or all types of water supply systems for the dwelling or any farm purposes. Call and see Mr. McBride at the Bank of Montreal, who will be pleased to tell you all about it.

We are glad to note that Mr. Joe Welch is now getting along nicely and is able to be up for a few hours each day. He expects to leave the hospital this week end.

† † †
Misses Ruth Rusté and Lorna Reid were both operative patients at the hospital during the past week, appendicitis being the trouble. They are reported as getting along as well as can be expected.

MRS. C. MESSIER, Owner

G. A. Morton

Auct. Lic. 37-39-40

A cousin of Mr. Jack Telford, Mayor Dr. L. Telford, of Vancouver, was here on Saturday last while journeying to Ottawa on business connected with his office at the coast.

The lines of the Canadian National Railways serve 90 per cent. of the people of Canada.

What constitutes good radio entertainment? That's the question I asked scores of radio listeners all through Southern Alberta during the past week. I talked with professional writers, newspaper publishers, fill-in operators, store clerks and farmers.

Many were high in their praise of radio, and of CJCA in particular; but they did have criticism, constructive criticism, of the industry in general. That's always the most valuable criticism, so let's deal with it.

The professional writers seemed to sum up the feelings of most listeners when he said: "A good radio program should make you feel different after having heard it. It should make you laugh or it should make you cry, or make you a little wiser. If a radio program hasn't enough meaning, enough 'reason for being' to leave a lasting effect on the listener, it is not worthy of a place on the air! Too many programs appear to be chosen just to fill up time!"

Well, that's a big order! But the radio station that fills that order will shine like a beacon above all its competitors! It can't be filled in a day or a year, but it can be an ideal for station operators to set for themselves.

Station CJCA boasts many programs that live up to the standard set by my writing friend. "One Man's Family," for instance, written by newspaperman man Carlton Morse, certainly has an emotional effect on the listener! I challenge anyone to listen to it consistently and not have a greater understanding and more sympathetic outlook toward American home life.

Of entirely different nature is the CJCA Monday night show called "Information Please", in which a board of experts attempt to answer difficult general knowledge questions forwarded by listeners. I remember one night listening to it at the home of a friend. He has a 15-year-old son that likes nothing better than skipping classes and loafing through study periods at High School. But when John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams had finished answering scores of different questions accurately and with a remarkable degree of wit, the young chap said wistfully, "Boy, I'd give plenty if I knew as much as those guys!" I'd like to report that the gentlemen got busy with books and an encyclopedia from then on—but I can't say he did. I do maintain, however, that the program inspired in him a desire for learning! With his teachers and parents lies the responsibility of cultivating it. Radio has done its part.

Another feature that leaves the listener the better for having listened is "Getting the Most Out of Life". Here is a program that is inspirational in a straight-from-the-shoulder manner. The speaker is no mealy-mouthed opportunist spouting platitudes for the sake of his sponsor's sales. His own life, his own extraordinary accomplishments in themselves add authority to every inspiring phrase he speaks. His inspirational messages are filled with interesting references to case-histories of men who have made good both financially and morally. The sponsors of "Getting the Most Out of Life" can be congratulated on their choice of Dr. Stidger as commentator on their Monday through Friday program, 9:45 to 10:00 a.m.

COMING EVENTS
